

ISO 45001 for Internal Auditor Migration

You need this course if ...

You wish to build on your existing occupational health and safety management system internal auditing experience

You are an internal occupational health and safety management system auditor wanting to learn about ISO 45001 and how the revisions to this standard effect you

You are an internal auditor working in an organisation that is certified to OHSAS18001:2007 and is migrating to the new revision of the standard

You will learn ...

- The key changes introduced in ISO 45001
- The enhanced requirements concerning process thinking and use of the process model to prepare for an internal audit
- How to audit the effective implementation of processes, taking into consideration the context of the organisation, risks and opportunities and monitoring and measurement requirements
- The requirements for leadership and identify related audit evidence

You will need...

- To have attended an internal occupational health and safety management system auditor training course and have experience of conducting occupational health and safety management system audits

Course Duration: 1 Day Course

www.oaktree-training.co.uk

